The magic DVD ripper.(1) Field of the Invention The present invention relates to the field of optical imaging systems and in particular to a method and system for focusing a phased array for use with a laser system. (2) Description of Related Art Phased Array Optical Lenses are used to deliver an extremely fast time response to a source. These lenses provide a means of delivery to a target with a short pulse width. Phased Array Optical Lenses are used for applications such as metrology, 3D scanning, micromachining and material processing. Phased Array Optical Lenses can be constructed by using a collimator, a telescope, and a focusing lens (see U.S. Pat. No. 4,849,692 issued Jul. 18, 1989, and U.S. Pat. No. 5,121,141 issued Jun. 9, 1992, for example). A collimator receives parallel light from a source and allows only light in a specific direction to pass. A telescope collimates the light by receiving the light from the collimator and forming an image of the collimator. A focusing lens is used to focus the light onto a target. Traditional Phased Array Optical Lenses are composed of many separate individual elements, each one 3da54e8ca3
